

ABIM's 2022 MOC Fees

CHOICE.FLEXIBILITY.VALUE.

ABIM has created a new MOC fee model that better aligns with the way you engage with our programs.

In 2022, ABIM will introduce a fee model that will enable board certified physicians to pay less to maintain certification than they do today. And, when your next assessment is due, the Longitudinal Knowledge Assessment (LKA™) will be included at no additional charge.

Here's what you can expect to pay for MOC starting in 2022:

Annual MOC Fee $220/year

- For the first certificate you're maintaining
- Paid annually
- Includes LKA for that discipline
- 5% discount if paid prior to year it is due
- $40 fee if paid in year after due

Each Additional Certificate You Maintain + $120/year

- Paid annually and includes LKA for that discipline
- 5% discount if paid prior to year it is due
- $40 fee if paid in year after due

Traditional, 10-year MOC Exam + $700

- In addition to the annual MOC fee
- Taken in a test center and paid when you register
- Waived if the LKA is not developed in your specialty*

Transplant Hepatology, Adult Congenital Heart Disease, Advanced Heart Failure and Transplant Cardiology and Clinical Cardiac Electrophysiology*

Supporting 200,000 doctors through their careers at ABIM, fees serve physicians by providing:

New Longitudinal Knowledge Assessment

Seamless #CMEforMOC connection

Affirmation your medical knowledge is current

New Physician Portal App

Personalized support from Customer Relationship Advocates

Examples of savings for physicians choosing the LKA over a 10-year period

	MOC FEES	SAVINGS
Internal medicine physician with one certificate	$2,200	$100
Subspecialist with one certificate	$2,200	$650
Internal medicine physician also maintaining a subspecialty certificate	$3,400	$100
Physician with two subspecialty certificates	$3,400	$650

The new payment model will go into effect 1/1/22, and you can pay your 2022 certificate fee early and receive a 5% discount 12/1/21 – 12/31/21. Program fees for 2021 can be paid until 12/31/21 at the regular rate, without incurring late charges.

Using current rates. As compared to 2021 MOC fees. Savings does not reflect a discount for payment in advance.*
